Notice.

DR. A. L. CURTIS.

A report prepared at Detroit shows that eighty-five lake vessels, capable of carrying 27,177 tons, have been destroyed or broken up during the past year, while only twenty-five new vessels, with a capacity of 14,737 tons, have been put in commission in the same period. The decrease is not large, but to go backward at all is an unhealthy movement, and shows the need for more intelligence in the legislation affecting ship-builiding interests.
